ANOTHER DIRIGIBLE TRAGEDY.

Two German Soldiers Killed by a Fall of 500 Feet

BERLIN, Sept. 11.—Two soldiers were killed and another Zeppelin dirigible balloon narrowly escaped destruction at Leipzig yesterday when the great German military airship Z-5 was wrenched free from the hands of 150 men and carried aloft by a sudden gust of wind. The dirigible was eventually brought to earth and safely housed.

The Z-5 had just returned from the German imperial army maneuvers at Silesia and an attempt was being made to get the vessel in the balloon hall when a sharp gust of wind suddenly dragged the airship from the hands of the soldiers holding her ropes. The motors were started barely in time to prevent disaster. Four soldiers, who became entangled in the lines, were carried up. One man extricated himself and another was hauled into the gondola. The two other men fell to the ground from a height of 500 feet and were instantly killed.
